Thinking, Fast and Slow by Daniel Kahneman

"Thinking, Fast and Slow" is all about how two systems — intuition and slow thinking — shape our judgment, and how we can effectively tap into both. Using principles of behavioral economics, Kahneman walks us through how to think and avoid mistakes in situations when the stakes are really high.

If you're prone to making rash decisions that you sometimes regret — or feel too burned out to spend a lot of time weighing out the pros and cons of certain choices — this book is definitely worth checking out."

Ramp Fritters

In honor of Earth Day, this month's recipe uses the king of foraged veggies: the ramp (aka wild leeks). When ramps come into season in April, avid northeastern foragers begin their hunt for the spring onion's cousin. If you head into the woods this spring remember to forage responsibly, only taking cuttings and never pulling up the roots. This ensures the ramp will grow back next year.

These ramp fritters taste like your classic onion ring or blooming onion. If you can't get your hands on ramps, thin scallions are a great substitute. Thanks to BonAppetit for the recipe!

Ingredients

- 10 oz. ramps
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- ¾ cup rice flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. kosher salt
- ¾ cup club soda
- ¾ cup light beer
- Vegetable oil (for frying; about 6 cups)
- Lemon wedges (for serving)

Method

1) Remove any slippery outer layers from ramp bulbs, trim roots, then soak in a bowl of cold water. Lift out ramps and blot dry with paper towels.

3) Cut ramps into 1" pieces. Whisk all-purpose flour, rice flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt in a large bowl to combine. Make a well in the center and pour in club soda and beer; whisk until smooth. Fold in ramps.

4) Pour oil into a large cast-iron skillet fitted with thermometer to come 1" up sides and heat over medium-high until thermometer registers 350°. Working in batches, place ¼-cup mounds of batter into skillet and press down lightly to flatten and submerge. Fry, turning once, until fritters are golden brown, about 4 minutes. Transfer to paper towels to drain; sprinkle with salt. Serve with lemon wedges for squeezing over.

Recycling Crash Course

This Earth Day brush up on your recycling knowledge with these 6 recycling facts and tips!

- 1) The average person generates over 4 pounds of trash every day and about 1.5 tons of solid waste per year.
- 2) We generate 21.5 million tons of food waste each year. If we composted that food, it would reduce the same amount of greenhouse gas as taking 2 million cars off the road.
- 3) Recycling one aluminum can saves enough energy to listen to a full album on your phone. Recycling 100 cans could light your bedroom for two whole weeks.
- 4) The Container Recycling Institute (CRI) estimates that the 36 billion aluminum cans landfilled last year had a scrap value of more than $600 million.
- 5) Americans throw away about 28 billion bottles and jars every year.
- 6) In 2010, paper recycling had increased over 89% since 1990.
